Small Projects

Not all of our projects are new head office or campus buildings. Often they are additions to existing client projects, or simply smaller scale projects where diverse and complimentary Smartworking® products or Pods are specified – sometimes individually, sometimes in multiple or within more diverse combinations – to powerful effect.

The impact our products can make in a small project can be seen here in a primary-coloured Away from the Desk unit in a retail estate agent in London; the Boundary unit in a large atrium space in Belgium, and the Cors featured in both an elegant restaurant space and the concert hall of a music school.

Combining different products and finishes has a dramatic effect on each product's design value and personality, with each new project and design vision seeming to breathe new life into our products. To illustrate this, and show the breadth of our portfolio, we've also photographed products within our own showroom and in some of our dealer spaces.

It's a pleasure to see our products being used by clients, dealers, architects and designers in the creation of original and dynamic workspaces, both within offices and, increasingly, in diverse co-working, lounge and hotel spaces.
